Die the great Triumvirstill.

Let not Cesar's servile minions, Mock the lion thus laid low; 'Twas no foeman's hand that slew him, 'Twas his own that struck the blow. Hear, then, pillowed on thy bosom, Ere his star tades quite away, Him who, drunk with thy caresses, Nadly threw a world away!

Should the base pleblan rabble Dare assail my fame at Rome, Where the noble spouse, Octavia, Weeps within her widowed home; Seek her, say her Gods have told me, Altars, augurs, circling wings, That her blood with mine commingled, Yet shall mount the throne of kings.

And for thee, star-eyed Egyptian! Glorious Sorceress of the Nile, light the path to Stygian horrors, With the splendors of thy smile. Give this Cassar crowns and arches, Let his brow the laurei twine; I can scorn the Senate's triumphs, Triumphing in love like thine.

I am dying, Egypt, dying; Hark the insulting foeman's cry; They are coming—quick, my faichion! Let me front them ere I die. Ah! no more amid the battle Shall my heart exulting swell, Isis and Osiris guard thee, Cleopatra! Rome!—Farewell!

BISHOP QUINTARD.

Charles T. Quintard, Episcopal Bishop of Tennessee, is a rare man. He is apart from the common herd of humanity, and his type is not met with often in the daily haunts of life, es we will set forth.

In an age of sneering infidelity,, replete with all the cynicism of modern materialism, he laid aside the comfortable revenues of an honored and lucrative professson, to shoulder the Cross. To many men this may not be heroism, but to the calm and philosophic thinker, who knows the workings of the human problem around W. Mr. Trott, who was highly esteemed. it is heroism of the highest type. We say it with shame for our race, that it has become the fashion of small intelhas become the fashion of small intellects to east doubt and ridicule upon sacred mysteries of the Gospel. It is in their atrophied brains, an indication of an investigating scentical and learnof an investigating sceptical and learned apprehensions. The modern cru-sader has to encounter all this in his fight for the Cross, and although he does not have to face the valiant and was a gross blunder to say the least" fiery Saracen, and is not burned at the stake; yet his task is a hard one, and his foes are a thousand to one. There is one consolation, however, he should carry like a jar of precious oil wherever his destiny may be cast, and that is, he is the genuine benefactor of General Assembly of the State of Tenhis race, the conservator of society and the foundation stone of order and | kill or capture in said counties, from

A Tennesseean has invented a mitrailleuse gun, which scatters its fire over a larger area than the French gun, and it is not so likely to soon become heated as that weapon. It has twenty four barrels of forty-four calibre grouped together in a chamber of brass in such a way that at a distance of 300 yards their contents are thrown over an ellipse the long diameter of which is twenty-four feet, the size of the ellipse increasing proportionately to the increase of distance.

best of all the Pills with which the marke abounds. By their occasional use, the blood is purified, the corruptions of the system expelled, obstructions removed, and the whole machinery of life restored to its healthy activity. Internal organs which become clogged and sluggish are cleansed by Ayer's Pills, and stimulated into action. Thus incipient disease is changed into health, the value of which change, when reckoned on the vast multitudes who enjoy it, can hardly be computed. Their sugar-coating makes them pleasant to take, and preserves their virtues unimpaired for any length of time, so that they are ever fresh, and perfectly reliable. Although searching, they are mild, and operate without disturbance to the constitution or diet or occupation. we take pleasure in informing the public that we are prepared to do all kind of Dentistry in the most improved style and on reasonable terms. We would also call special attention to the fact that we have the best fitted up office in the city, with a supply of Dental tools and goods that cannot be surpassed in the United States. And with the aid of the Dental Engine we are enabled to do work with greater case to ourselves and with less pain to our patients. diet or occupation.
